

PRIVACY

InterRent Greece makes absolutely certain that your personal information is protected in compliance with applicable laws. Principally, the personal data obtained within the scope of this contractual relationship will be utilised and processed for the purpose of performing under the contract.

To be able to keep you informed of the extensive portfolio of services offered by interRent, we process and utilise your address information (name and address) for the purpose of advertising, marketing research and opinion polls. No data is transferred to any third parties.

You are entitled to be provided with information as to the personal data we have stored for you as an individual. You have the right to object to the utilisation of your information for the purpose of advertising, marketing research and opinion polls at any time